HEARTLAND

The level of concern around the threat and spread of the Coronavirus (COVID-19) around the globe, and particularly in the U.S., reached new heights this week. At Heartland, we have a credo of "entrepreneurs respectfully serving entrepreneurs" that we not only believe in but live out in our professional lives.

We want to respect and help our restaurant entrepreneurs that have been forced to close or have closed voluntarily.

Additionally, we are closely monitoring the ever-evolving situation in order to respond to and prioritize the needs of our clients, as well as for the health and safety of our employees. In the meantime, we will continue to stay connected with you on any additional updates.

As your trusted partner, we want you to know that it's business as usual at Heartland. We are taking precautions prescribed by the Center of Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the World Health Organization (WHO) in all of our offices. We don't expect any interruptions in the level of service to your business due to the contingency plans we already have in place for these types of situations. Our business continuity plans include the ability of our employees to work remotely, should it become necessary. We are dedicated to providing you with the highest quality service experience possible, regardless of any contingencies that may arise.

Together we will get through this uncharted territory with the mutual respect, focus, and care that we have for one another. Please be safe and take care of yourselves, your family, your teammates, and your community as we know you already do better than any others. We are proud to have you be one of the hundreds of thousands of entrepreneurs that we respectfully serve.
